Associates' Opinions Of Ruby Diversified

By WILBUR MARTIN
DALLAS, Tex. — (AP) — A "Guns and Dolls" character, that's Jack Ruby.

He's the man millions watching television Sunday saw gun down Lee Harvey Oswald, the accused killer of President Kennedy.

The strip-tease club operator's "got a million friends in show business" and a lot of ex-business associates, too. Most peg him in a different way.

"I don't think political affiliation had anything to do with Ruby's action," said attorney Tom Howard, who will defend him on a murder charge.

BADLY SHAKEN

"I don't think Ruby has any political affiliation — Democratic or Republican — or if he even knew which he was."

His sister, Eva Grant, said he was badly shaken by Kennedy's death.

"He couldn't eat Friday. He kept talking about Jackie and the Kennedy kids."

"I'm crying. I can't take it."

That's what Al Gruber, a friend in Los Angeles, said Ruby told him over the telephone early Sunday in talking about the Kennedy shooting.

Ruby, 33, born Rubinstein, is brawny, emotional and hot-tempered. He brawled himself away from poverty and the streets of Chicago.

'HUNGRY FOR A BUCK'

He made it good — for him — here about 15 years ago with his first "little swinging place, the Silver Spur."

"Man," said a one-time partner in dance promotions, "he's always been a buck. He's always after it. He lives for the business . . . the two clubs (Carousel Vegas)."

Some saw him as an intensely patriotic man, a hero worshipper of presidents . . . Frank D. Roosevelt, Jack Kennedy.

To others:

"I think Ruby just got him self an impulse and operated on him (Oswald)," said Herbert C. D. Kelly in New Orleans. A business associate of Ruby years ago, Kelly figured Ruby was more upset over the killing of a Dallas patrolman, than over the President's death. Witnesses said Oswald shot down the officer not long after rifle bullets smashed into the President.

"Patriotic, he wasn't. A police buff, he was."

"I think he was of some sort of morals kick," said a woman who had dated him.

"He didn't drink, smoke, cuss. But he always treated the ladies nice."

Packing a pistol had caused two of his three arrests in recent years. Being tough, showing off the muscle he worked on with exercise each day, caused another. It was a night spot fight.

A flashy dresser, when he first came to Dallas he chose fancy Western wear.

"He felt very badly about the Kennedy assassination," said George Senator, manager of Ruby's Vegas Club, a public dance hall. "He kept saying: 'Oh, that poor family.'"

'PATRIOTIC'

"He's a little odd," said Bill DeMar, the master of ceremonies who brings on the strippers at the Carousel Club.

"But tremendously patriotic."

"For a buck," said his ex-partner.

"You know, this just about would have killed him. Not the President's death. But the business . . . You live for the holidays in this town. Two months of the free spending and it carries you the rest of the year."

The business is short for Thanksgiving, Christmas, New Year's. Man, who's gonna live it up now!"

All Santa Fe Trains To Stop for Minute

The Santa Fe Railway paid tribute to President John F. Kennedy by stopping all of its trains on the 13,000-mile system for one minute at noon Monday, Ernest S. Marsh, president of the railway, said.
